Los Altos Company Vies for Million Dollar Trip to the Great Barrier Reef, the Natural Wonder of the World

Los Altos small business, All Horizons Travel, is one of 120 companies from around the world competing for a million dollar trip to the Great Barrier Reef in Tourism Queensland's Million Dollar Memo contest.

President of All Horizons Travel, Maureen Jones, says that their entry has gone live on the Million Dollar Memo website and they are looking for support from the local community.

"Every day we work tirelessly to put together dream vacations to Queensland and the Great Barrier Reef for our customers. We are very passionate about creating vacations that our customers will never forget, and as Queensland is our favourite place in the world, we are in a great position to win this amazing prize.

"The wonderful people of the Bay Area and Silicon Valley are able to help us get closer to our dream vacation. All you have to do is view and share out video on the Million Dollar Memo website. This will increase our score and push All Horizons Travel up the video rankings," says Ms Jones.

Tourism Queensland International Director – Americas, Shana Pereira encourages Bay Area and Silicon Valley locals to support All Horizons Travel's bid for the million dollar prize, and also reminds companies in the area that there is still time to submit their own video.

"The Million Dollar Memo contest ends at 6.59am (Pacific) on May 1 – this Sunday – so there is still plenty of time to submit an entry. If you think your company deserves a million dollar trip to the Great Barrier Reef, then get your colleagues together for a creative brainstorming session today!," says Ms Pereira.

The Million Dollar Memo is open to anyone from any organization, company, business or workplace in any country and entries close on May 1 2011 (6.59 PDST).
